Friday morning, about 2 7 clock, Miss Alien was awakened by a noise in her room. As she moved, her arm was clutched by a negro, whom she recognized as Bill Collins, one of her father's employees. The negro threatened the airl with death if sine made a noise, but Miss Allen, fearing a fate worse than death, gave a scream which alarmed the household and caused the negro to fice. The hegro was chased all day Friday, and at nightfull was captured. Collins was identified by Miss Allen, but while preparations were being made to lynch him, he escaped. All Saturday and Saturday allen, but while preparations were being made to lynch him, he escaped. All Saturday and Saturday inght, the negro was pursued. The chase led through phosphate regions, where the negroes are numerous, and two of Collins friends attempted to conceal him. These two negroes were shot by the pursuers and their bodies were placed on the palroad track, where they were cut to pieces by passing trains. The mangled remains of these negroes were discoverd Sunday morning. Several trains had passed over the bodies and tlentification was impossible. Collins, the assallant of Miss Alien, was captured by the pursuers early Sunday morning. He was taken to the scene of the attempted outrage, and notices sent out for people to gather to aid the lynchers.

A great crowd assembled at noon on Sunday. The negro was taken to the banks of the Sunnee river. There he was hanged and his body riddied with bullets. The corpse was then cut down, weighted with stones, and thrown into the river. In eight months, fourteen negroes have been put to death in Lafayette county for assaults on white women.

ABUSE OF ORCHARDS.

Common Error Pointed Out By the Agricultural Department.

Washington, June 11. - Common abuse of orchard tracts is pointed out in a statement to be issued by the agricultural department. This abuse is agricultural department. This abuse is the custom which prevails generally of counting the orchard as a field of the farm and calling upon it for its crop of corn, oats, wheat, grass and hay in rotation with the other fields. According to the official warning, nothing could be devised as more likely to permanently injure a growing or fruit-yielding orchard than such a policy.

When the trees have reached a fruiting age no other crop should be grown in the orchard, though while it is young and non-productive of fruit it may be wise to grow other crops than trees. But there must be a double fertilizing done for the development of the trees, and the other for the incidental crop. The cultivation and fertilization should be as regular and constant as if a crop were annually constant as if a crop were annually removed. This plan, it is pointed out, will revolutionize orchard culture in many sections and make many seemingly useless orchards profitable.

Washington, June H .- The weather bureau in the report of crop conditions for the week ending June 19, states: Upon the whole the week has been more favorable to agriculture than any week of the season since the period from May 17. season since the period from May 17.
